GOOD MORNING

Last week we were talking about the wisdom of Solomon and his writing about the futility of outcomes. I stumbled across a Chinese proverb that helps illustrate the point. There was a man named Sāi Wēng, who he raised horses for a living. One day, he lost one of his prized horses. After hearing of the misfortune, his neighbor felt sorry for him and came to comfort him. But Sāi Wēng simply asked, "How could we know it is not a good thing for me?"

After a while, the lost horse returned, accompanied by another beautiful horse. The neighbor came over again and congratulated Sāi Wēng on his good fortune. But Sāi Wēng simply asked, "How could we know it is not a bad thing for me?"

One day, his son went out for a ride with the new horse. He was violently thrown from the horse and broke his leg. The neighbor once again expressed his condolences to Sāi Wēng, but Sāi Wēng simply said, "How could we know it is not a good thing for me?" One year later, the Emperor's army arrived at the village to recruit all able-bodied men to fight in the war. Because of his injury, Sāi Wēng's son could not go off to war, and was spared from certain death.

One of the points of the proverbs is to remain cautious in times of blessing and to not be too disheartened in times of trial, because no one knows how things might play out in the end. Solomon put it like this in Ecclesiastes 6:12, "For who knows what is good for man while he lives the few days of his vain life, which he passes like a shadow? For who can tell man what will be after him under the sun?" So, if we are not supposed to get too caught up on our fortune or misfortune, what are we supposed to focus on? Solomon answered that for us too. "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep His commandments, for this is man's all." Ecclesiastes 12:13. So whether things are good or bad, let us be focused on doing the Lord's will for us.
