GOOD MORNING...

I had a long conversation the other day with a friend about how hard it is to find a show to watch now days on television that doesn't promote some kind of sinful lifestyle. I was reminded about an article I wrote several years ago about how I missed black-and-white television. Not that I was alive to see too much of it when it was new, but I do remember growing up and watching it as a family on Nick at Night. I even had several several conversations with people lately looking for a channel to watch classic movies and westerns. I don't think we are missing the monochrome style or even a particular show or movie, but I think we are missing shows that have black-and-white morals. We miss shows that contain clear right and wrong, that have strong values, and that communicate a good message. You have to go to great lengths to find those kinds of shows on TV anymore.

Sadly, I think it is just a reflection of the world we live in. Think about it...isn't it hard to find people who have clear morals anymore? When is the last time you saw a celebrity, politician, or athlete that you thought was a shining example of what it looks like to be a good person? They don't ask themselves what is right; they ask themselves what is right for right now. We as Christians need to make sure that we are standing up as shining examples for the world to see. We need to make sure that we are living according to what we know to be right and true – the everlasting word of God. Jesus called his followers to live just and moral lives – ones that shine out to a world filled with darkness. In Matthew 5:16 Jesus says, "Let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and praise your Father in heaven." So let us choose right before wrong and let our light shine before the world.
