GOOD MORNING,

Later this evening, Super Bowl LVIII will take place. The game always ends up being the most-watched television event of the year in the United States, even if the Cowboys didn't make it. People watch the Super Bowl for a lot of different reasons. Some people are fans of the game, a team, or just a particular player that happens to be in it. Others watch it for commercials. Some watch the game just for the fellowship of the people they are watching it with, and some watch it just so they will know what everyone else is talking about the next day. Whatever the reason, the game tonight should attract close to a 100 million viewers.

Although it has been declining the last few years, the last poll I saw said that close to a 100 million people in the U.S. still claim attend some kind of religious service on Sundays. This number is close to the number that will watch the game tonight and just like the Super Bowl, people attend for a large number of reasons. Some do it out of obligation, some attend for the entertainment, some are there for the fellowship of the others who will be there, some will attend to not feel left out, and others attend because they are fans of Jesus and what he has done. I would like to challenge you this morning to give some thought to reason why you are here. If the answer is not one you are comfortable with, work on changing. We should treat our worship services like a football game. As disciples we should not just sit there and be spectators. It should be part of who we are and what we do.
